PROGRAM for your Life
How God develops students at NBC for what comes next

Don, what led you to Bible College?

First off, to be really blunt, what kept me from going to Bible College was rebellion to God's call, foolishness, and the pursuit of material things of the world. It took a long time, but I happened to see an NBC brochure at a conference and we first sent our daughter. It absolutely changed her life in the development of her as a person and her walk with God. A window of opportunity opened up in my life so I just decided, even though I was older, to go for the Foundations for Life Certificate no matter the cost, both financially and personally. It turned out to be the best winter of my life!

How did the year prepare you for life?

Since I came as an older student, I had accummulated a lot of puzzle pieces of life and theology. Right from day one in the first class, with an amazing teacher, Joel Houston, it was like he took all the pieces of the puzzle and put them together. It made a beautifully clear picture of how God's Word and our lives fit together, in relation to each other, so we can understand our purpose for life. Every day thereafter just got better and at the end of the year one truly walked away with a Foundation for Life!

February 2018

How did NBC better prepare you for ministry in life?

It may seem crazy, but it doesn't seem to matter whether I am dealing with my wife, daughter, a parent in palliative care, an employee, or customer, something I learned at Bible College is always coming into use. Just the other day in a meeting I used an example of something I learned in the "Team Work in Ministry" course about the compounding effect of people working together for the common good. When asked where I got that from I was able to say with a big radiant smile and healthy pride, Nipawin Bible College! ...continued on page 3

Our core purpose is to develop passionate followers of Jesus Christ with a heart to serve. A core value in achieving this purpose is to equip people for humble and dedicated service for Christ by developing their spiritual gifts, and their minds for biblical thinking and discernment, through a balance of knowledge and practical experience. In order to accomplish our equipping value, we have a one-year, Foundations for Life program, a two-year Christian Ministry Diploma, a three-year Bachelor of Christian Ministry and a four-year Bachelor of Arts program. I look at these programs as "programming for life".

When I think of these programs I am reminded of when I was pastoring and went out to lunch with our youth pastor and his family. After lunch, as we were leaving the restaurant, his wedding ring somehow fell off in the snow. I remember all of us looking fervently for that ring. As we did, I was thinking we were never going to find this ring that we continued to pursue. I remember during that process thinking that he must really value the ring to keep pursuing (looking) for this ring in the snow. Then the thought came to mind, that if it had been a Band Aid that had fallen off his finger into the snow, would he have even told us that he littered. That thought brought me to the concept that we pursue what we value.

This edition of the Rivers highlights the value of a Bible College education through the responses of four different alumni, in various stages of life, enrolled in four different programs. I am encouraged by their responses as they reinforce that a biblical education is of value to everyone, for wherever and whatever life has in store. No matter one's pursuit in life, there is a program to pursue that will suit you.

The program that is right for each student honestly depends. It depends because each program, I would suggest, has value worth pursuing as programming for life. Whether one program over another may be the best for a person depends on each person's uniqueness and unique individualized pursuit. As can be seen from the responses taken from first, second, third, and fourth year students, each person and pursuit is unique, as are the outcomes. Some enrol in a one-year program over another as a function of desiring to return to school to get a biblical foundation for life in order to build on one's own biblical proficiency and confidence for the real world. For some, a particular program is of interest as a preparatory stepping stone to build on one's biblical proficiency and confidence in their faith in order to better succeed, all around, for life and academics of post secondary education elsewhere. Still there are others that see a particular program as foundational to a long term career, in developing them as men and women equipped biblically for their particular long term career commitment. Then of course some choose a particular course over another in order to equip them for lay leadership or for full-time, paid pastoral or mission ministry or otherwise. Whatever God's purpose in your life, as is evident in the responses of four students in four different programs, there is a particular program of value worth pursuing, to equip each one in their life pursuit.

HISTORY OF CHRISTIAN-MUSLIM RELATIONS

with Alan Guenther, PhD

Briercrest Faculty

Increasingly, Christians in North America are encountering Muslims. A review of the ways in which Christians and Muslims have interacted in the past provides guidance for our current relationships.

Karissa, at what stage of life did you attend NBC and what led you to enrol in the two-year Christian Ministry program?

As a young adult I had graduated with honours from high school and wanted to try my hand at independence. I didn't intend to stay longer then a year due to the pressure from home to seek higher education; but I felt drawn to come back for another year to grow in my knowledge of the Bible and strengthen the bonds with my school mates who had become more like a family.

After NBC you went on to attend University to attain your teaching degree, how did the Christian Ministry Program prepare you for life at University?

After NBC I took some time to figure out where God was calling me and later felt called to enter the four-year Education Program at the University of Saskatchewan through the Indian Teachers Education Program (ITEP) on campus. NBC helped prepare me for university through developing critical thinking skills, essay writing, and general research skills needed to navigate through classes and varying workloads.

What aspects of the Christian Ministry Program do you see as beneficial to you now as a teacher?

I've always been active in ministry whether it be sharing Christ's love with inner-city youth at the Rock Church in Saskatoon during my first year in Education to being on the ministry team for College and Career at Ebenezer Baptist Church in Saskatoon. I am now using my knowledge and training in working with inner-city youth in Meadow Lake, SK as well as mentoring youth in high school.

Justine, how would you categorize the stage of life you were in when you attended NBC?

While I was at NBC my stage of life was one of constant growth. Through the growth I received I was transformed from an immature Christian with a lack of biblical knowledge and dedication who still doubted regularly, into a young Christian woman who knows her way around the Bible and is completely certain that God is the Great I Am. By the end of three years I was equipped in such a way that I can continue to grow and mature without needing teachers constantly pushing me towards Christ and I have a desire to seek this continued growth.

You are married to Pastor Jeremy Sherwood, how did the three-year Bachelor of Christian Ministry prepare you to be married to a pastor?

It prepared me for ministry by giving me a biblical foundation that was previously absent and teaching me to love people. Both are very important because without love I wouldn't be able to minister to the people in our church and without a biblical foundation I would have little hope of directing them towards Christ.

What courses from the three-year program have you found particularly useful in your current ministry?

I think the third year course that has been the most useful in my ministry so far was my Christian Leadership Practicum as the student leader of the Living Proof student drama team. It helped me by giving me a lot of practice talking to and loving people I didn't know in many different churches and giving me opportunity to serve in those churches. I believe that has helped me to be more comfortable while in conversation with the people from my church and trying to get to know them.

Calvin, how would you categorize who you were when you began Bible college?

I was a person with no plans or intent regarding vocational ministry, and to be honest, no plans for life in general. I didn't know what I wanted to do and felt a lot of pressure that I had to. I decided to go to NBC as a practical way to put God first in my life because it seemed like a pretty good place to be while living in that place of uncertainty. One year turned into four and that year the opportunity to pastor at Nipawin First Baptist presented itself and my wife and I came to feel that this was indeed something God was calling us to do. I still don't know what the plan is, and I still live in great uncertainty but I've come to have more peace about that than I did when I was 17 starting my first year at college.

Along with being a full-time pastor you also maintain partial employment in the community, how did the program of a four-year Bachelor of Arts prepare you best for marketplace ministry as well as for preaching and teaching? I started working at the Dairy Queen after my first year. I'll never regret having a job while at college. During this time in my life I did a ton of rethinking what ministry and "witnessing" were required to look like. NBC stimulated me to wrestle with such questions, and the DQ provided a place to actually see what works and what doesn't—to listen to people share their experiences of what church has been like for them and get a sense of what needs to change.

What course that you took within your four-year program, surprisingly has been a help to your ministry as a pastor?

It should be no surprise that courses like Communications, Advanced preaching, Sermon Design & Delivery, and Ministry Synthesis were and are helpful, yet I'd probably pick these classes because I still had no plans or ideas about ever being a preacher, so the surprise was more so just how directly applicable these classes would end up being in life as I know it today. I had no idea what was coming. I find myself reminded time and time again of little things, tidbits of experience-based knowledge and wisdom, that pastor Dan Esau, one of my teachers, said in class.

NBC has been a place to stimulate thought, a safe place to ask some potentially dangerous questions, and a place where my life's path changed directions (and took direction).

This past year's Christmas Cantata was one of the biggest yet! The gym was full both nights and the stage was packed with almost 60 people who made up the choir, kid's choir, actors, and band! I am so grateful and blown away by the dedication that everyone put into making the whole event a huge success. Because of the strong talent and the continuity of members from prior years, Timothy Lenko and I were able to bring both an original script and music to the choir and Living Proof drama team to learn. The drama was a mixture of comedy and seriousness as we followed a family searching the mall on Christmas Eve for their lost daughter even as they were celebrating their first Christmas after their son had passed away. From the beginning of the process, my prayer was that the message of hope, peace, and joy would be heard by those who attended—and I believe that is what happened! Many people were impacted by the message that despite our grief and hurt, God is present and there to comfort. Several guests commented that the theme is one that needs to be heard throughout the year. Thank you to all who performed, attended and prayed for this event.

NEXT STOP...PHILIPPI

We are excited to tell you about an adventure some of our students are embarking on this summer in conjuction with Action Ventures—a mission trip to the Philippines taking place July 2-29, 2018 in Silang and Pampanga! It will be an opportunity for our students to serve and grow while communicating the Gospel, using the arts. They will serve street kids and youth, learning to perform with these same kids in schools sharing the hope of the Gospel using mediums like music, drama, illusions puppets, and chalk art. The team will help with existing church plants, home visits,

Bible studies, prayer, and community events. In some instances, the team will help with vocational training like mechanics, welding, sewing, and, worship & art.

We recently had the opportunity to ask Sharmyn Abrahamson and Wyatt Penner about the trip. Both have been on mission trips before but look forward to experiencing this new culture. Wyatt signed up for this trip because, "he felt God calling him to it" and is anticipating "spending lots of time with kids and serving people in a different way than what he's done before." Sharmyn expects that "she will be tempted to stay in situations where she is more comfortable but wants to learn to trust that God is in control and be willing to be pushed out of her comfort zone." Both students, like the rest of the team, have expecations and aspects of the trip that they are looking forward to, or are a little concerned about.

Please pray with us for these students as they spiritually prepare for what is ahead of them—trusting in God's faithfulness. If you would like to support any of these students financially, please contact Action Ventures directly at (403) 204-1421.

We want you as alumni to stay refreshed in classroom learning while having an opportunity to reconnect with the College.

NBC is offering one free course audit per college year to NBI/NBC third and fourth year graduates. Credit hour fees would be waived but alumni would be responsible for their room and board.

Some restrictions apply. Application forms are available on our website or by calling 888.862-5095.

As our fiscal year-end approaches, we want to give you a look at where the giving numbers currently sit:

Budgeted General Donations $300,000

Year-to-Date $170,000

Needed by April 30, 2018 $130,000

As you read this, we are approximately nine months into our fiscal year. With only three months to go, we are praying for a strong finish in April. Will you prayerfully consider a gift to the General Fund of Nipawin Bible College to see our April 30, 2018 year-end financial needs met?
